

#177 A Letter of Gratitude To my so-called best friends

 thelifeofmine3.wordpress.com/2024/11/30/177-letter-to-my-so-called-best-friends/

November 30, 2024

So called best friends,

Once I thought the three of you were everything to me after my parents and brother. You were my world, my joy, my support. Today however things are different. No one stands by me anymore but I know it's not entirely your fault it's mine too. And that's okay I want to express my gratitude for the moments we shared, for your presence, time and the priority you once gave me.

Whatever has happened now doesn't erase the happiness I once felt with you all. You pushed my life in a good direction, encouraged me and brought me immense joy. Time and circumstances may have changed a lot but I genuinely cherish those days without any regret. Thank you for those memories. Thank you for been my best friends.

No one else will ever hold the same position or carry that lively identity in my life. You meant so much to me and whether this story has a good ending or a bad one it's clear that it has ended. Still I thank you for everything the surprises on my birthdays, the late-night visits, the time we spent together and the warmth of your Christmas and New Year wishes. I always wanted to wish you guys first because you were my priority.

These days remind me of you but I've realized that even without you I'm okay and I'm fine.

Thank you for everything.

“Thank you for being with me in those days and thank you for not being with me now.”

With gratitude,
Papu, salo, pakki